Dedication

To You, the TRUSTEES of REINHARDT COLLEGE . . .

In whose hands the present and the future of our college rests,

Upon whose judgement we much rely to preserve the highest traditions and yet to make changes when new conditions demand them.

Through whose efforts, current support must be secured and future expansion provided,

With full realization of the sacrifices and generous contributions of time, thought, and financial resources, which you give for our benefit and the welfare of future students, and

With love and devotion, we dedicate this 1953 edition of THE CHEROKEE PHOENIX.

FOREWORD

It is the purpose of this book to record the most memorable events of our years here at Reinhardt; to make it possible for those who so wish in the future, to relive these happy years. If this goal is accomplished, our efforts shall not have been in vain.

ADMINISTRATION BUILDING

First a dream, then a possibility, then a reality . . . such is the story of our beautiful new administration building. Completed in 1951, students this year for the first time have the privilege of completing an entire term in this, the pride of Reinhardt College.

GYMNASIUM

A very popular place on the campus is the gym. Volleyball, basketball and badminton are enjoyed there.

THE STUDENT CENTER

In the basement of the new administration building is the room of many uses known as the student center. Cokes, lunch, ping pong or television are interesting pastime between classes.

SEPTEMBER 8th . . .

I remember that line into the registrar's office. Everyone thought it terrible except the seniors. They laughed it off.

Reinhardt students showed wide interest in the revival by visiting and inviting the towns people to attend. Rev. Dwight Nyswander assisted Mr. Branham in the services which proved very inspirational. The students from Reinhardt showed that their interests were not entirely rooted in campusology.

Invitational parties and picnics given by the 4 literary societies for the new students were very nice occasions. New students were invited to attend all of them, and soon joined the society of their choice.

We remember the two short plays given by the Alpha Literary Society.

Remember the Christmas banquet? Students and teachers gave cash to finance lunches for some children in the elementary school instead of giving gifts to each other. The money was presented to Mr. Tarpley, Elementary principal, by President of the Student Fellowship, Ed Deen.

It was good to come back to Reinhardt after the Christmas holidays. It seemed we were separated from our friends for a long time.

The beautiful snow that greeted us the next morning made going back to classes fun.

The most important moment of each day was when Mr. Cline handed us a letter. Those packages from home were more than welcome. They were of interest to roommates and casual friends too.

Oh happy initiation day.

PIE-EATING CONTEST
KING
QUEEN

Now, girls, I'll tell you this, but you musn't breathe a word of it to anyone, cause it's supposed to be a secret. But Clara told Barbara and Barbara told Dorthy, and Dorthy told me, and . . .

Under the direction of Mr. Clyde Partin, the Reinhardt inturmural sports system has had one of the best years in its existence. Approximately 90 per cent of the student body takes an active part in this program.

"Mother Jernigan's boys", did what most of us had considered impossible until this year. They threw a party in their dorm and all members of the female species were invited.

*Note to the alumni—Tut, tut, now boys, no heart attacks!

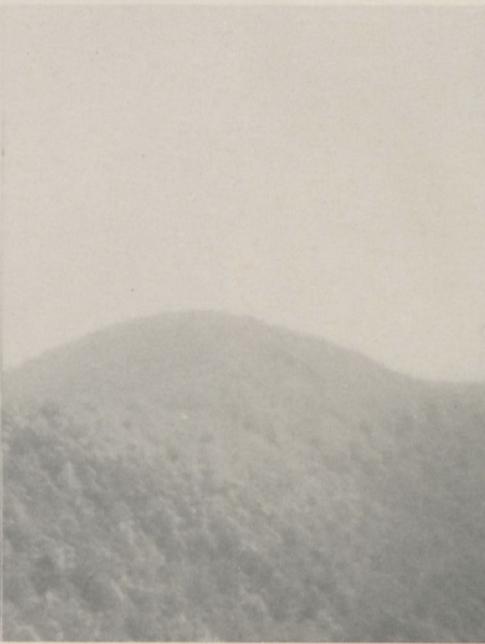

In spite of the flue epidemic, the play cast, like true actors, came through with their production of Silas Smidge from Turnip Ridge. Under the directorship of Mr. Boswell, and with Robert Hansard in the leading role, the play was produced February 21. The entire play cast is to be commended by their cooperation in face of the numerous difficulties that were presented.

High light of the Pi Epsilon year is the annual Pi Epsilon Sweetheart Banquet, which is exactly what the title implies. The society, made up of those with high scholastic averages, presented a program packed with entertainment and food. Faculty and alumni of the society were invited.

Pine Log Day

In spite of rain and transportation difficulties, the annual Pine Log Day is always observed. Turned loose on this long awaited day, students explore every crack and corner in the mountain as they show their pioneer traits.

Both boys' societies, after the debates, to top the year off, take trips to far off points of the map. Into these trips go careful planning by numerous committees, and out of them come a full day of enjoyment for members and supporters, who are guests-of-honor.

The farm and kitchen, owned by the college, and kept up by students under the supervision of qualified instructors, provide excellent opportunities for students who must work off part of their expenses.

May Day

May Day was an eventful day for Reinhardt and the other schools of Cherokee county. In spite of the hot weather, everyone had a wonderful time. Above Mr. Burgess is crowning Linda Doss the May Day Queen. Below the May Poles are being wound.

Graduation

After the fun and hilarity of each school year, there inevitably comes a time of sadness—for those who must leave. That is why we, the staff, dedicate this page to the seniors of the class of '53.

As the time draws near, even those of us who are the most hard-hearted find ourselves choking up inside. As we begin the march, we remember the times before when, in smaller groups, we have gathered for some reason or another in front of this building. As we receive our diplomas, we know that although we may have stood in the same spot before, it has never meant so much.

Seniors, 20 years from now, when we are looking at our annual and come to these pictures, let us remember the importance in our lives that these recorded events represent.

The above is a scene from the Alpha Literary Society's stunt, which took first place in the annual stunt night affair.

Which twin has the tonguee?

Mr. Moore, he's our man, if he can't do it, nobody can!

The Stones at home in the Knox house.

Prince, the Cherokee Phoenix Mascot.

One of Mr. Burgess' hobbies is horseback riding. Two students, Ed Verner and Dot Nalley are shown on his horses.
