Volume IX

Foreword

With the closing of our school year, we pause to catch a final glimpse of the good times and friendships we have shared. You have made the school year, and we have attempted to preserve it through word and picture. Now, the Cherokee Phoenix is yours.

Dedication

For eight years you have served the students of Reinhardt as teacher, friend, and guide. Not only in your teaching of English, but also as sponsor, dean, and counselor you have been a vital part of Reinhardt College. Your untiring efforts as religious advisor have been a great inspiration to all of us. We of the Cherokee Phoenix staff dedicate this annual to you, Miss Decora Adams. "Miss Adams, we are so glad you are at Reinhardt!"

Life at Reinhardt

A FAMILIAR SCENE TO THE STUDENTS IS THIS VIEW OF THE CAMPUS

THE COLLEGE YEAR

September 12 in the year 1955 saw the convergence of a horde of somewhat timid but eager newcomers to our fair campus. The new students had arrived! On the same day the campus was swelled to overflowing by the arrival of the "Dignified" Seniors, wise in the ways of the world and well learned in the customs and traditions of R. C., and burning to acquaint every new student with the eminence of their knowledge. The total number of students hovered around a record mark, the largest enrollment in the history of the college. School started and R. C. was off to a banner year.

A Day at R.C.

Wake up at 7:00, dress and go to breakfast in the dining hall.

Then we clean our rooms for room
check

and prepare to do our daily work
under our different advisors.

After class we

visit the grill or

study in the library.

Afternoon brings a ball game,

relaxation, a game of horseshoe

and horseback riding.

At Night

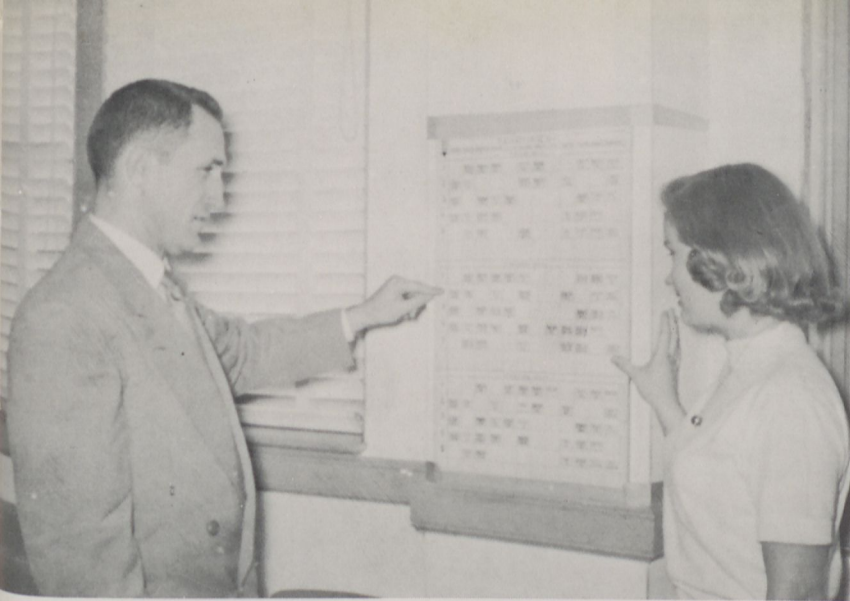

Such activities as folk games,

studying,

and watching television are typical
of R. C.

Then cameras put these features in the news.
