REINHARDT COLLEGE . . .

There are many ways to describe a small two year college in the "middle of nowhere", including boring, too quiet, and too small. But to those who have and are attending Reinhardt, it is none of those. To them Reinhardt is a school in which they can learn, both in and out of the classrooms. A place where lasting friendships can occur, and a place where a person can begin to find out more about himself, both intellectually, and spiritually. Reinhardt is all of these, and that is what the Administration takes great pride in, along with the many Alumni of the School. Now in our 101st year, we are moving into a new age, and hope that we can keep our Reinhardt for more years to come.

"WAIT! COME BACK DEAR! WE CAN WORK IT OUT!"

DEDICATED TO DR. AND MRS. ALLEN O. JERNIGAN

For more than a decade Dr. Allen O. Jernigan has guided Reinhardt College through some of the brightest and most successful years of its existence. During those times both we and those who have been students here before us have come to admire and respect Allen and Linnie Lou Jernigan for their many contributions. Inaugurated as president of the College in 1973, Dr. Jernigan has been very much the leader of Reinhardt College. Although not a teacher, he has taught us through his own examples of faith, hard work and dedication to others. Today the College we attend is a thriving institution of higher learning which has enriched all those who have passed through its doors. It is with regret that all of us had to bid goodbye to these two people. On March 15, 1984 Dr. Jernigan formally resigned as president to take the position of Director of Development with the International Nursing Services Association. In doing so the Jernigans are not simply taking another job in another place, but are continuing their own ministry as servants of God. We will miss them. For those reasons and so many more we dedicate the 1984 edition of the Cherokee Phoenix to Dr. Allen and Linnie Lou Jernigan.

DR. JERNIGAN BIDS FAREWELL TO REINHARDT

Many fond memories flood my mind as Linnie Lou and I leave Reinhardt College and begin our new ministry with the International Nursing Services Association. What a great privilege to have had these past twelve years with the "Reinhardt Family." We will always cherish the wonderful relationships we have had with you.

Although many changes have taken place since our moving to Waleska in 1972, our central mission has remained the same: Quality education in a Christian context. On several occasions I have been asked, "What is your dream for Reinhardt College? What is your primary objective?" I've always answered, "that Reinhardt might better appreciate its purpose, that we might be more Christian." Of course, new facilities, a good stable enrollment and a balanced budget all contribute to "the abundant life" on campus. However, my dream has been that we might grow up in Christ.

Linnie Lou and I feel Reinhardt is most fortunate that Floyd and Fay Falany are committed to expanding this emphasis. Truly Reinhardt has a bright future under their leadership as this Methodist college moves ahead into the second century.

My prayer is that Reinhardt will continue to grow in peace and love and that Christ's joy may be yours in the years ahead.

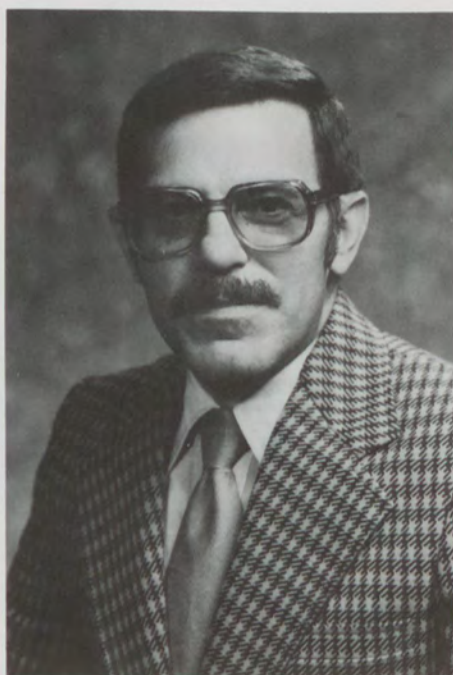

PRESIDENT FLOYD A. FALANY

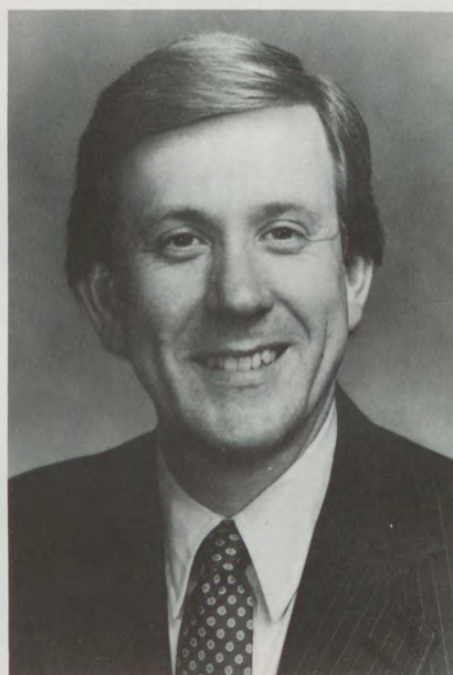

On Thursday, March 15, Dr. Floyd A. Falany assumed the Presidency of Reinhardt College. He succeeded Dr. Allen O. Jernigan who had held the post since 1973. The change came almost four months earlier than expected because Jernigan had accepted the post of Director of Development with the International Nursing Services Association. Falany was named president-elect in November 1983.

Dr. Falany brings a strong background in college administration to his new post. He has served Reinhardt since September 1973 when he was appointed academic dean. Two years later he was promoted to Dean of the College. In 1981 he was named Executive Vice President and Dean. Today he is the College's new leader as it enters its second century.

CONVOCATION SERIES BRINGS MANY SPEAKERS TO CAMPUS

Colonel Charles Scott talked of his experience as one of 39 hostages held in Iran. The former military man presented a speech that was moving and strongly patriotic.

Russian dissident Dmitri Mikheyev spoke of "The Soviet Union Will Survive Until 1984 and Here's Why." He presented a speech laced with humor and sharp observations of Russian life.

Christian singer/songwriter Ed Kilbourne was a big hit with the Reinhardt community with a show that was filled with good music and insights into the Christian life.

Nationally known economist and econometric forecaster Donald Ratajczak presented his views on current economic conditions and the prospects for economic recovery.

The Reverend Bill Mathews a.k.a. Bags the Clown retold the story of creation through the use of clowning and mime.

WSB-TV anchor woman Monica Kaufman told students and faculty how they could talk back to television.

Noted archeologist Lewis Larsen presented a program on the early Indian civilization which inhabited the area around Cherokee County.

SNOW DAZE

What would a year at Reinhardt College be like without snow? It's that soft white substance that falls from the sky and turns otherwise sane and studious college students into raving maniacs. When the snow comes, as it does once or twice each year, it often means no classes and a chance to reinvent some new sports. Like sliding down snow covered hills on cafeteria trays. It means snow fights and staying up late at night so as not to miss a moment. For something rare it's a lot of fun!

EPSILON AND PI TAKE RAT WEEK!

The competition was fast and furious between Reinhardt's fraternities and sororities during the highlight of Winter Quarter — Rat Week. The week featured all kinds of events ranging from a costume contest to skit night to an Almost Anything Goes night where nearly anything went. The winners who emerged from all that mayhem were Sigma Chi Epsilon sorority and Omega Kappa Pi fraternity. Above, representatives of the two Greek organizations accept the award following the Panhellenic awards ceremony. Pictured are: (l-r) Steve Shinall, Dale Turner, Laurie Rhoden, Epsilon president, Hank Edge, Lindsey Lewis, Chan Ross, Omega Kappa Pi president and Mike Milford.

Rat Week provided a fascinating introduction to college life for the freshmen who participated as new fraternity and sorority pledges. They were able to learn new songs while marching around campus late at night. Marching — when they weren't crawling — under the direction of big brothers and sisters they got to know like family. They discovered new uses for shaving cream, eggs and various other substances. They had their heads covered with diapers, they mooed like cows. Men had to carry danity stuffed animals while women couldn't wear make up. They got to make their own imaginary videos and stage their own version of the Dating Game. (Boy George meet Elton John, Arnold Palmer and Stevie Wonder!) They were punks, eagles, cows, warriors and the ever lovable Jim Grape. It was all a part of Rat Week 1984.

OMEGA AND PHI NU SWEEP PANHELLENIC AWARDS

It was a happy time for the sisters of Psi Chi Omega sorority and their brother fraternity Sigma Phi Nu following the Panhellenic Awards Ceremony. This year the Omegas made an almost clean sweep of the awards taking the prizes for Citizenship, Service Project and the President's Trophy. In addition, they shared the award for Greek Week with Phi Nu.

Phi Delta Chi sorority proved they're a smart group of ladies by winning the Panhellenic Scholarship Award. The Deltas received the prize because they were able to maintain the highest overall academic average of any Greek organization on campus during the year. This also marked the third year in a row that the sisters of Phi Delta Chi were able to claim the award.

LADY EAGLES SWING INTO SOFTBALL ACTION

In 1984 Reinhardt took a swing at expanding its women's athletic program. For the first time the College's co-ed athletes had an opportunity to display their skills on the softball field against other colleges from throughout the state and area. Following on the heels of the successful debut of Reinhardt's basketball Lady Eagles, this edition of women's sports generated a great deal of excitement.

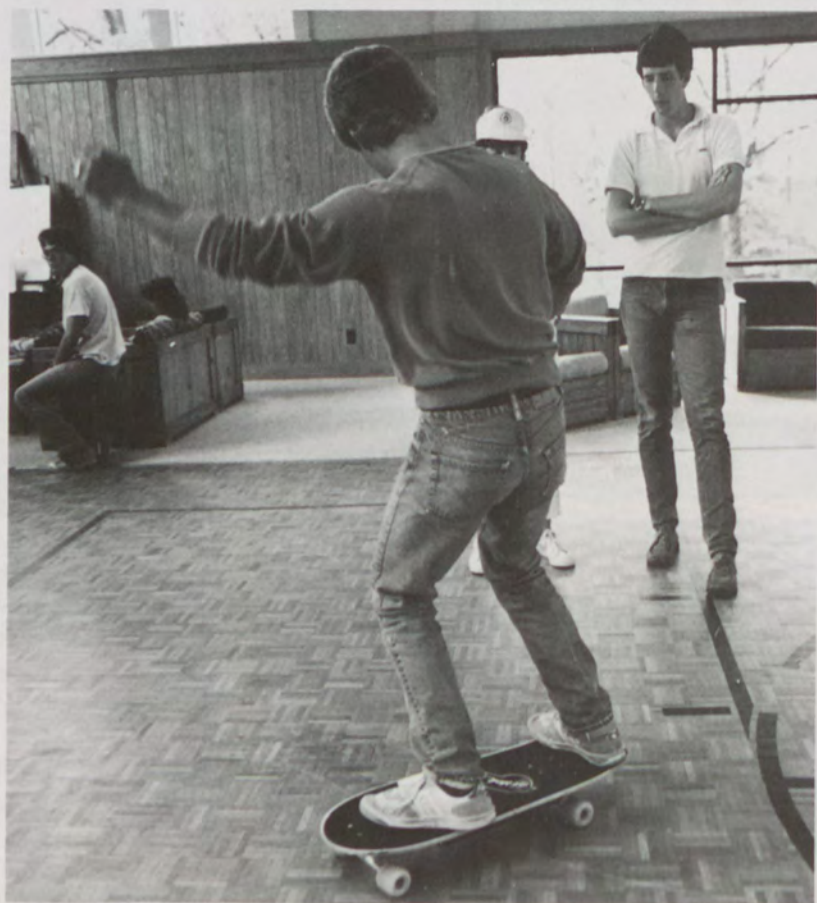

INTRAMURALS

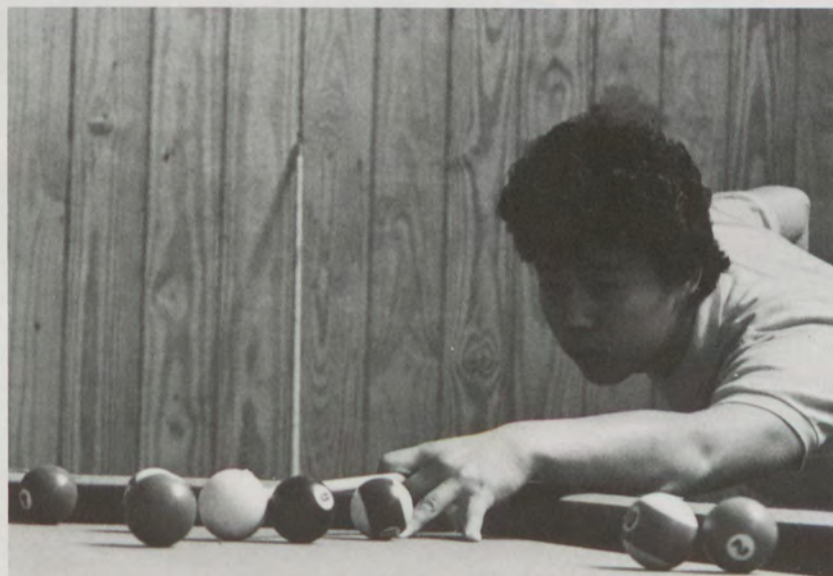

Intramural sports are an important part of life at Reinhardt College. In the fall teams representing fraternities and sororities and independents compete in football for men and soccer for women. In the winter its basketball for both sexes and finally in the spring softball commands center stage. All the games are hard fought and the spirit of competition is keen indeed.

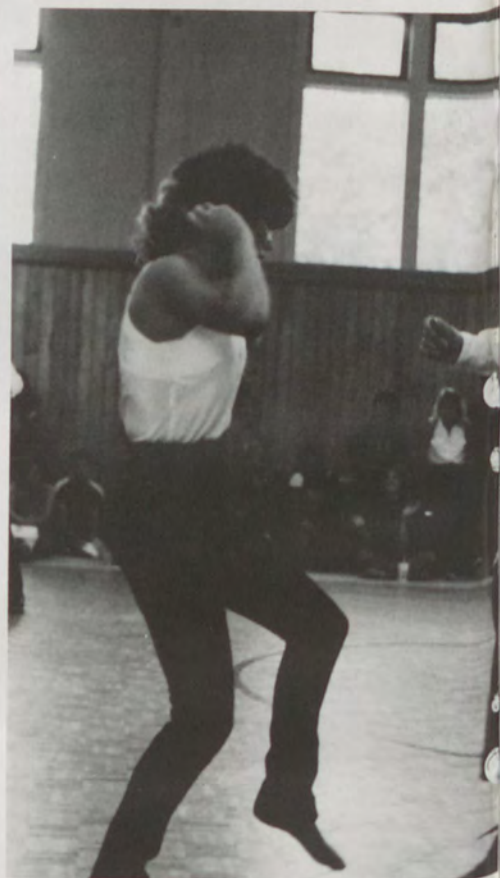

During the spring quarter the College's outstanding intramural athletes are honored at a special banquet. This year the Sportsmanship trophy went to Amy Smith and William Vollenweider, while Laurie Rhoden and Craig Trimble were chosen as the outstanding athletes of the year. Plaques were also presented to other students who accumulated 200 or more points in intramural competition.

GREEKS BATTLE FOR SUPREMACY

The first week in May is a very busy and exciting time for Reinhardt's fraternities and sororities. For six days the brothers and sisters of each organization compete in a series of events designed to challenge the skills and imaginations of every participant. It is a week filled with intense emotion and fierce pride. Every member is dedicated to proving that his or her organization represents the best of Reinhardt College.

This year the brothers of Sigma Phi Nu and their sister sorority Psi Chi Omega made an almost clean sweep of the week's events. The two won Greek Week, but it was a close and hotly contested win. At the end of the week the points from each event were tallied and Phi Nu and Omega had won. It was a victory they had every right to be proud in achieving.

SECOND ANNUAL FISHING RODEO

Spring time is a busy time at Reinhardt every year, but for the past two years a new event has been bringing students, faculty and staff outdoors. It's the Annual Fishing Rodeo which featured some competition between Reinhardt's more outstanding fishermen followed by dinner outdoors.

This year even those who didn't appreciate the culinary delights of fresh fish could partake of deer and several other kinds of meat. All of it eaten while sitting in the grass on a hill overlooking peaceful Lake Mullinax.

But of course the fishing was the thing. Prizes were awarded for those presenting the most outstanding catches. This year's winners, who received their trophies from rodeo organizer Philip Dorris, were Buddy Brantley for Biggest Blue Gill and Tony Roper for Best Stringer of Blue Gill.

It was a great deal of fun for everybody.

HONORS DAY '84

Honors Day at Reinhardt College is a time when students are recognized for outstanding achievement in academic and extracurricular activities. On that day students and their parents gathered in Reinhardt's Chapel to hear an address on the meaning of honor and living honorably by The Reverend John Minter, district superintendent of the United Methodist Church. Debbie Hammontree, a sophomore from Jasper, was recognized as the year's outstanding student. Other students received recognition for academics, Who's Who, Centennial Scholars, music education and other fields. It was Honors Day 1984.

GRADUATION

Caps, Gowns & Diplomas ...

Saturday, June 2 was a very important day in the life of 107 Reinhardt College students. For the second largest commencement class in the institution's 100 year history it was a day for marking the end of one aspect of their lives and the beginning of another. It was a time for sad partings with people they might never see again and the hope of new relationships yet to come.

The speaker for the day was Dr. Julius S. Scott, Jr., Associate General Secretary for the Division of Higher Education and Ministry of the United Methodist Church.

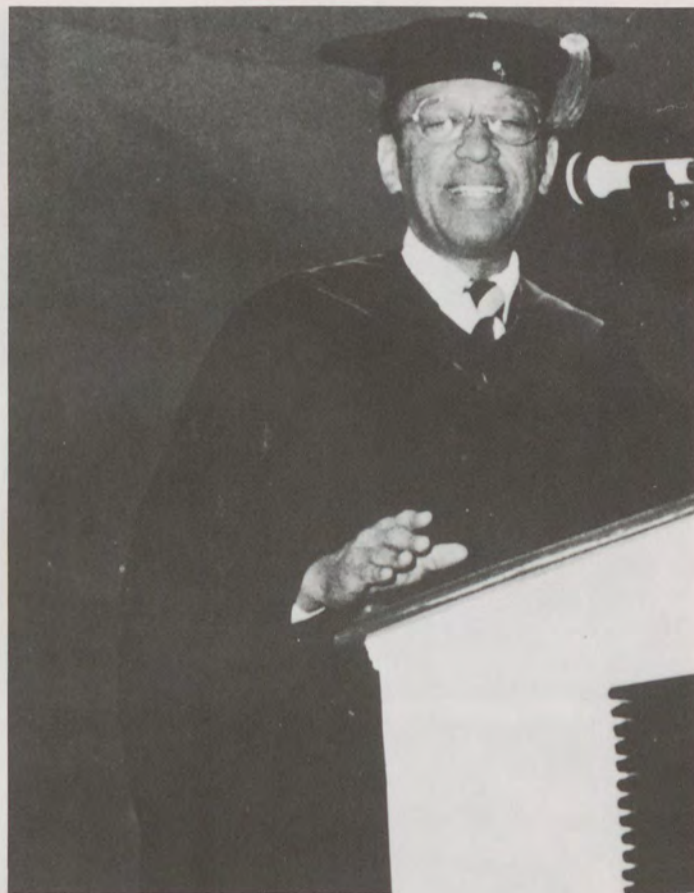

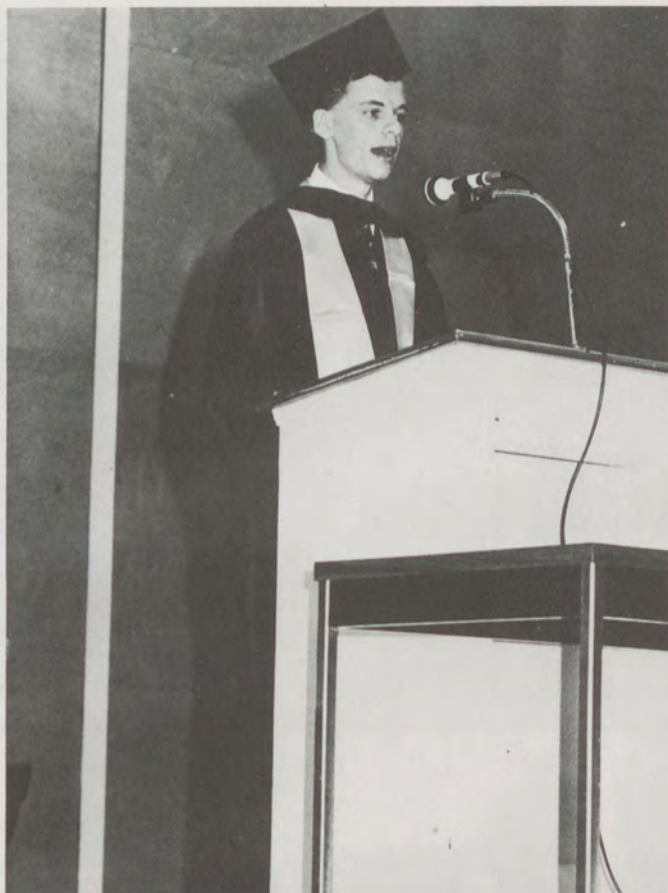

In addition to its graduates, Reinhardt awarded the honorary associate in humanities degree to A. A. Fincher, Jr. and his wife Martha. Both are long time supporters of the College.

The Salutatorian address was delivered by Amy Smith while Bobby Timms gave the Valedictorian address.

For everyone it was a time for hopes and memories. It was commencement 1984.

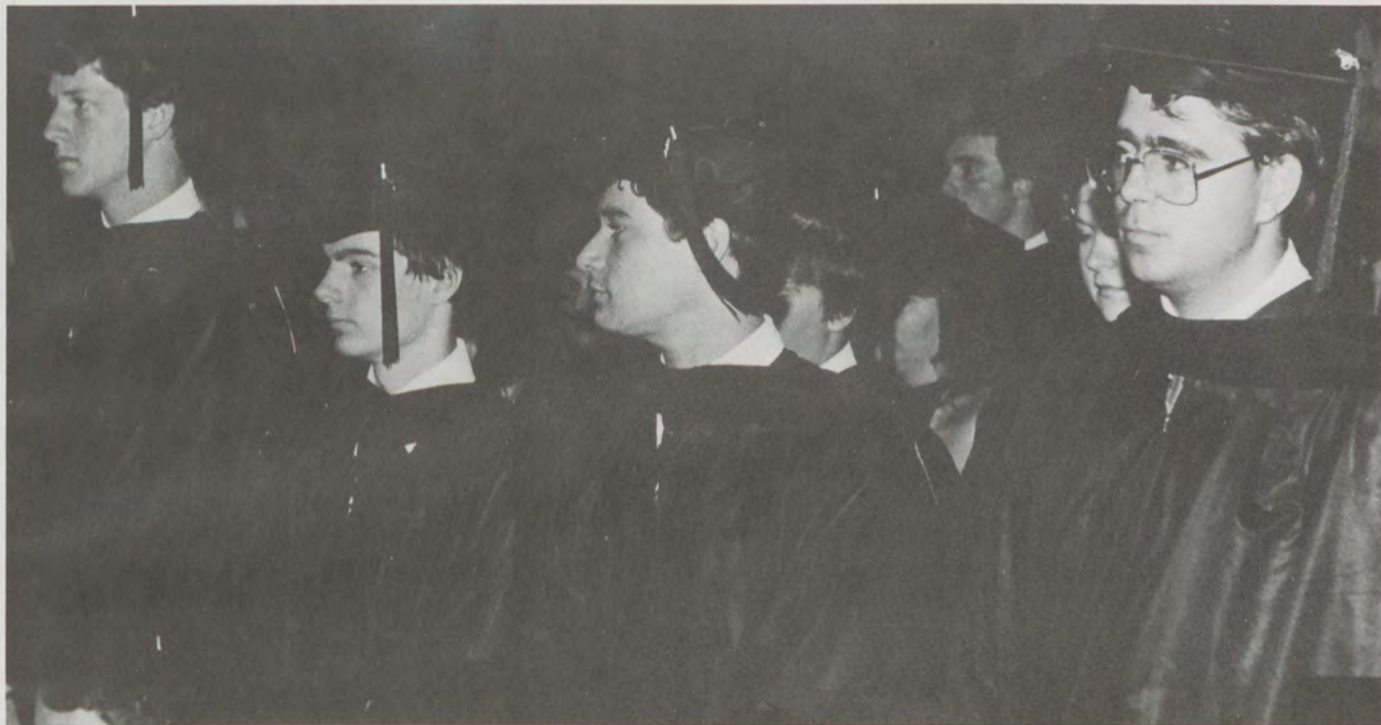

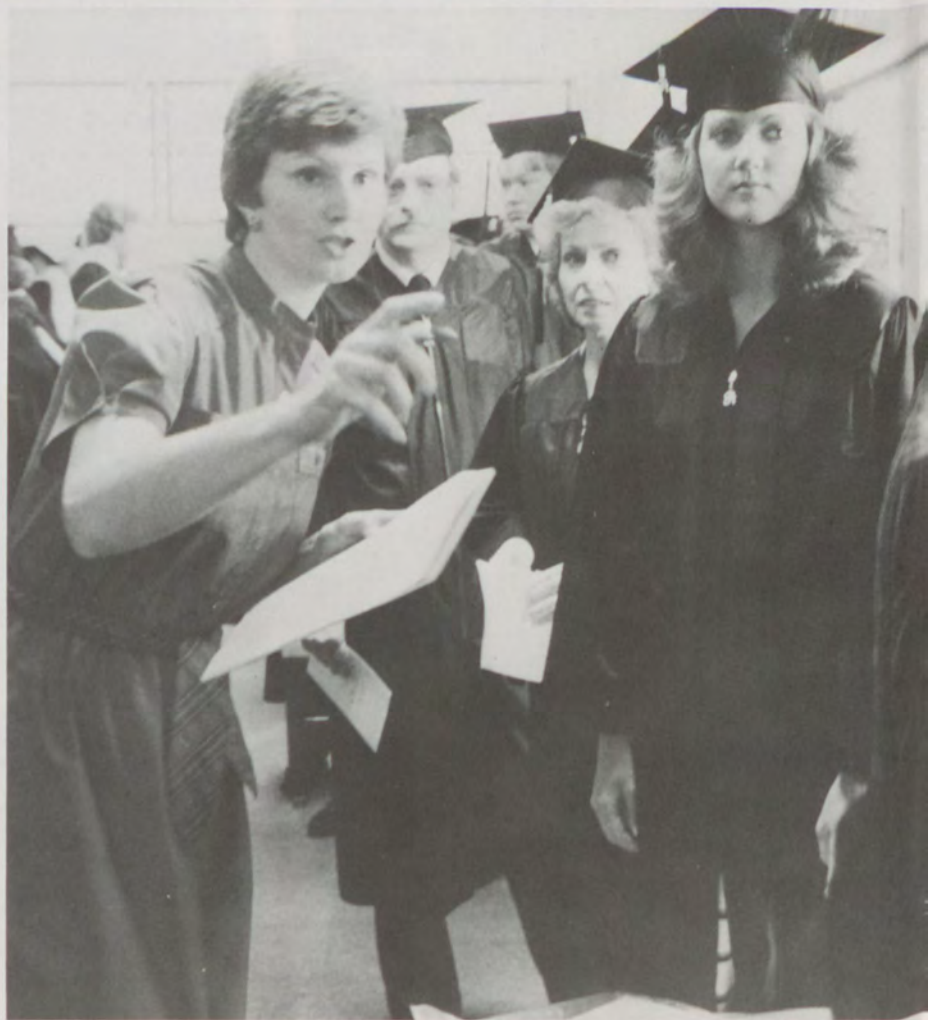

Among the Phi Theta Kappa honor graduates who received recognition during the ceremonies were: (l-r) Donna Andrews, Sara Harris, Suzanne Short, Bryan White, Bobby Timms and Amy Smith.

AMY SMITH WINS COVER DESIGN CONTEST

CHEROKEE PHOENIX
84

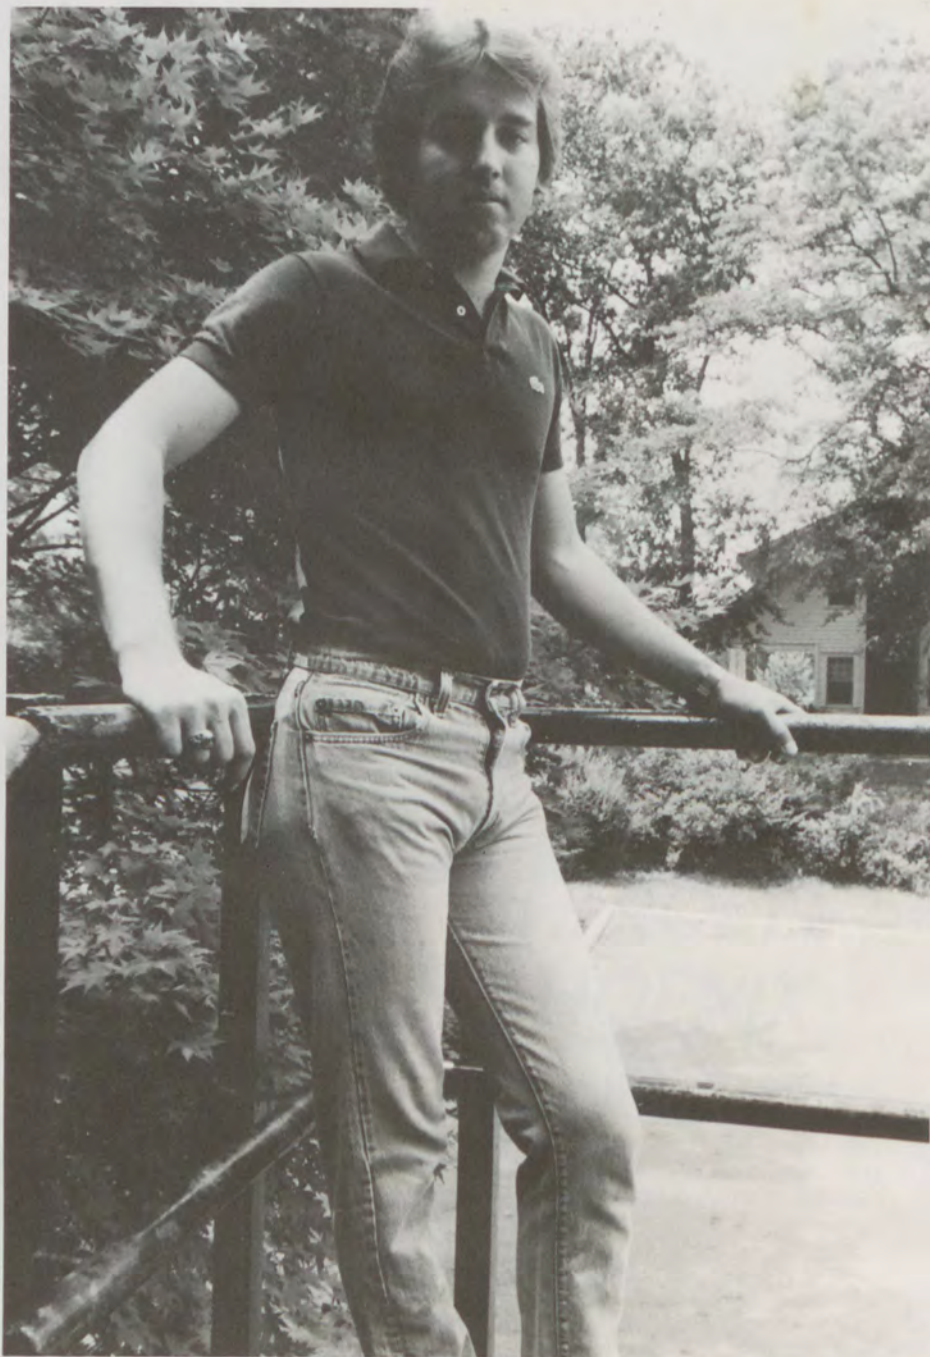

The art work which graces the cover of this year's edition of The Cherokee Phoenix is the work of sophomore art student Amy Smith. Her design was chosen from among those submitted by the student body.

For the past two years Amy has been one of the College's most outstanding art student. Her work on the cover, which is reproduced at left is but a small measure of her talent. Her work can perhaps be best summed up by this statement from associate professor of art Curtis Chapman:

"It has been my privilage these past two years to work with Amy Smith. My respect for her has grown as I have witnessed her development as an artist. Amy possesses the talent, the ambition, the determination, and the discipline that has brought her to this point of success in her young life. Amy has earned my admiration as I have watched her mature as a growing Christian.

"The trust, the faith, and the investment in the form of scholarships, interest, and time, made for her benefit, have been well spent. The payoff has been well worth the investment. I am very proud of Amy and her accomplishments and I am very glad she has come this way and made her mark here in this place. God bless you, Amy."

The 1984 Cherokee Phoenix . . . Probably the best book ever! It wasn't our hardworking staff, our many photographers, or even me, the "hard to find" editor that made it the best. It was YOU. You did it. It is your faces that make up the pictures and your presence that made it all possible.

Sure, if it wasn't for us, it would never have been put together, but without you there wouldn't have been anything for us to put there.

As editor of this year's book, I was privileged to work with a very fine staff. Kim Weller helped out tremendously, as did Laura Smith and Carrie Bigham and many others. Even Jeff Blankenship, who never attended meetings, helped out lots with the business end and did so without credit.

I have enjoyed the whole 1983-84 school year very much and will never forget all that I have learned, both in mind and spirit. I will continue to offer my help to the 1984-85 staff whenever possible, but through the camera lens, which is my first love in the business.

Thank you from the bottom of my heart for all the help and understanding that I have received from all of you. Without it I could have never made it through the year. I wish you all the best in all of your futures and may God always bless you richly with His Grace, until we meet again.
